The mother's are escorted down the aisle and each light their individual unity candle and take their seats

Bride's Father walks her down the aisle.

Welcome family and friends to this celebration of love and the blessing of the new life being joined together by the marriage of Bride and Groom. They come to dedicate themselves to God and to each other, and with His eternal help, to fashion their house into a home, their family into a unity of His Kingdom, and to achieve within their lives a hint of eternity. Bride and Groom have come to publicly proclaim their love and devotion through marriage.

Because this is a special day, we want to begin it in a special way, and that is with a moment of prayer. I'm going to ask that you close your eyes and turn within yourselves. And now, call forth that divine presence from within you, knowing that as you do so, God's blessings are now being poured out upon you both. "Through the presence and power and the activity of God within you, we now see you blessed with an abundance of all good. We see your minds illumined by divine wisdom, your hearts quickened by divine love and your bodies purified and blessed with divine substance. This we do affirm through the power of the living presence of God within each of you." Amen.

WHO GIVES THIS BRIDE IN MARRIAGE?

Her Mother and I do, or We do

Please be seated

True marriage is more than the joining of two persons in the bonds of matrimony. In its right relationship, it is the uniting of two souls already attuned to each other. When such a true bond already exists between a man and a woman, it is proper that an outer acknowledgement be made. This acknowledgement is the prime objective of the ceremony.

We are here to bear witness to the entry of these two loving friends, who are already one in spirit into the closer relationship of husband and wife. Claire and Andrew you are now taking into your care and keeping the happiness of one in the world, whom you love most dear, and the dynamic flow of love is the heart of marriage. This love emerges from, responds to, and is fellowship with God and each other. It is the challenge to create an atmosphere of freedom in which you both can develop your potentials. It is working together in an attitude of service for common goals. It is sharing from the depths of your being in the understanding presence of each other. It is a union of persons which respects individuality. It is the covenant of love which accepts weakness as well as strength.

You are adding to your life not only the affection and the response that your hearts desire, not only the happy companionship of hours together, but a deeper trust as well. It is the implied trust of loving. You are finding in each other that which complements your life. You are agreeing to be a tower of strength to one another. You are agreeing to carry a part of each other's responsibilities. You are entering on an adventure of pure faith in which you give of yourselves to the utmost.

Love knows no limit to its endurance, no end to its trust, no fading of its hope; it can outlast anything. It is, in fact, the one thing that still stands when all else has fallen. In this life, we have three great lasting qualities - faith, hope and love. But the greatest of these is love.

We will now have a reading by....

I like you!

by

Sandol Stoddard Warburg

I like you and I know why

I like you because you are a good person to like

I like you because when I tell you something special, you know it's special

And you remember it a long, long time

You say, Remember when you told me something special

And both of us remember

When I think something is important you think it's important too

We have good ideas

When I say something funny, you laugh

I think I'm funny and you think I'm funny too

Hah-hah!

I like you because you know where I'm ticklish

And you don't tickle me there except just a little tiny bit sometimes

But if you do, then I know where to tickle you too

You know how to be silly - that's why I like you

If I am getting ready to pop a paper bag,

then you are getting ready to jump

HOORAY!

I like you because when I am feeling sad
You don't always cheer me up right away
Sometimes it is better to be sad
You can't stand the others being so googly and gaggly every single minute
You want to think about things
It takes time

I like you because if I am mad at you
Then you are mad at me too
It's awful when the other person isn't
They are so nice and oooh you could just about punch them on the nose

I can't remember when I didn't like you
It must have been lonesome then
Even if it was the 999th of July
Even if it was August
Even if it was way down at the bottom of November
I would go on choosing you
And you would go on choosing me
Over and over again
And that's how it would happen every time

And idea:

Forget them, Wendy. Forget them all. Come with me where you'll never, never have to worry about grown up things again.-Peter

Peter: Wendy? One girl's worth more than 20 boys.

Wendy: You really think so?

Peter: I live with boys, the lost boys, they are well named!

Wendy: Who are they?

Peter: Children who fall out of their prams when the nurse is not looking. If they are not claimed in seven days, they are sent to the Neverland.

Wendy: Are there girls too?

Peter: Girls are much too clever to fall out of their prams.

Wendy: Peter, it's perfectly lovely the way you talk about girls! I should like, to give you a.. kiss

Wendy: don't you know what a kiss is?

Peter: I shall know when you give me one.

Peter Pan: Now, think of the happiest things. It's the same as having wings.

Tinkerbell: You know that place between sleep and awake, the place where you can still remember dreaming? That's where I'll always love you, Peter Pan. That's where I'll be waiting

So come with me, where dreams are born, and time is never planned. Just think of happy things, and your heart will fly on wings, forever, in Never Never Land!- Peter

The many gentlemen who had been boys when she was a girl discovered simultaneously that they loved her, and they all ran to her house to propose to her except Mr. Darling, who took a cab and nipped in first, and so he got her.

The Vows:

Do you, Groom take Bride, to be your wife, to have and to hold from this day forward, for better or for worse, for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health, to love and to cherish; from this day forward to infinity and beyond?

Do you, Bride, take Groom, to be your husband, to have and to hold from this day forward, for better or for worse, for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health, to love and to cherish; from this day forward to infinity and beyond?

At this time, Bride and Groom would like to personally express their love to each other in their own words:

The Rings Please...

A ring is an unbroken circle, a symbol of unity and love, representative of the greater circle of life of which we all spiritually are a part of. Having neither beginning nor end, but a continuous cycle of which you are an element. For you, it begins with the gift of life, and will continue through the end of time.

It's the Circle of Life
And it moves us all
Through despair and hope
Through faith and love
Till we find our place
On the path unwinding
In the Circle
The Circle of Life

Please repeat after me:

Bride, I give you this ring as symbol of my love and devotion. Wear it and know that I love you.

Groom , I give you this ring as a symbol of my love and devotion. Wear it and know that I love you.

The Lighting of the Unity Candle

Bride and Groom chose a unity candle that floats - some say it's because they met floating on a ship! At least it wasn't the Titanic! Nope, it was the ship of dreams and they are living proof that dreams do come true!!

The unity candle is a symbol of the coming together not only of Bride and Groom but it symbolizes where they came from. Their mothers each lit a candle from which they will light their candle together. Their mothers gave birth to them and nurtured and taught them the important things in life - the foundation of who they are and what they are contributing to this new life together and the family that Bride and Groom will become over time.

Groom thinks His Mom is "The Best!" That, is of course, a technical term. She calls every morning. She opens her home to he and Bride. She Celebrates life in it's fullness for what it is, no matter what. There is always goodness and great things to stand behind and one of the most important things she has taught Groom is to put others first. Bride- this is a good things! But, Groom, please to take care of yourself so you can take good care of others.

Bride's mom - Well, she likes red wine. This is a good thing!!! May your life be free flowing with good things like wine and love! Bride's also pulls the family together. She makes an awesome Sunday lunch. She also worked quite a bit over the past year to not only be here today to witness this wedding but to take a trip around the world! May you not only take it to the limit - take it beyond the limit! Such is what marital love is. It will take you beyond your limits at some point - so remember to calm yourself with wine if need be, remember the strength and foundation of family, realize what you are working for and then know that you have the love within you to find more than just your goal at the end.

You may just find a fire burning brightly to warm everyone around it until they glow. And, to think - it all started with two candles...

Come on baby light my fire!!! (that is, light your candle)

Bride and Groom come back together...

Please face each other and take each other's hands, so that you may see the gift that they are to you.

These are the hands of your best friend, young and strong and full of love for you, that are holding yours on your wedding day as you promise to love each other today, tomorrow and forever.

These are the hands that will work alongside yours as together you build your future.

These are the hands that will countless times wipe the tears from your eyes, tears of sorrow and tears of joy.

These are the hands that will give you support and encouragement to chase down your dreams.

These are the hands that will give you strength when you need it.

These are the hands that will lift your chin and brush your cheek as they raise your face to look into eyes that are filled with overwhelming love for you.

And lastly, these are the hands that even when wrinkled and aged will still be reaching for yours, still giving you the same unspoken tenderness with just a touch.

Bride and Groom...

A few words of advice from some wise ones. If they were here....

Walt would say: Don't look backwards for very long. Keep moving forward, opening up new doors and doing new things, because curiosity will keep leading you down new paths.

Keep dreaming and remember all your dreams can come true if you have the courage to pursue them.

The land before time would say
Let your heart guide you. It whispers, so listen closely.

Pooh Bear says"

The things that makes you different, are the things that make you you.

Peter Pan advises:

All it takes is faith and trust

Alice reminds you:

nothing's impossible

The Incredible Edna says:

never look back darling.... it only distracts from the now

I now Pronounce you Husband and Wife!!!!

May you live Happily Ever After!!

You may now kiss!!
